YOUR HELP IS NEEDED TO LIGHT THE LIGHT

Yes, with our public occupancy permit granted last October, we can say the restoration of the lighthouse building is essentially complete!

It is so incredibly rewarding to look at this shining jewel which represents the hard work and support of so many people in our community--members, donors, suppliers, volunteers. You can all be darned proud!

While claiming to be done, realistically, we know that restoration is an ongoing process. Even the word "building" (a present participle) proves this point. It reminds us of the continuing need to stay involved. After all, we don't call it a "built"!

The crowning jewel to our restoration is, of course, the light. Before we turn it on, however, we must raise $100,000 which will 1) complete our Capital Fundraising Campaign and 2) insure that we won't be using fossil fuels to light it.

We are happy to report that the first "Light the Light" contribution (received from an anonymous donor) is in the form of a $2,000 matching grant to go towards our new "solar" batteries. Funds you contribute to our "Light the Light" campaign will match this grant and help us reach the total goal of $100,000.

Please help make this dream a reality and send your contribution soon. We also need volunteers, so please call Charlotte at 847-4242 if you can help. If we're successful, a spectacular lighting ceremony can be scheduled this summer.

DOES ANYONE
REMEMBER...

...before World War I when a German submarine came up Narragansett Bay?
...a New York family named Lantz who summered on Jamestown and had a son who in 1932 got stranded in a sailboat on Rose Island with Tessie Vetterlein (now Terrie Landfair) and George Crawford?

It's wonderful how an article or picture in the paper or on TV brings back an old memory of a Rose Island visit--sometimes an unplanned one, like Terrie Landfair's, when she went aground in a friend's sailboat on Rose Island.

Olive Libby saw Chronicle on Channel 5 and wrote us about her visit in 1915 with her Aunt Sophie, who was the assistant keeper's wife. Jim Steel writes often of his love of Rose Island that began during his Navy days. Then there are Wanton Chase and Paul Stedman whose information helped us restore the lighthouse.

We will be sharing some of these stories and photographs ranging from 1910 to the '60s in future newsletters. If you want to share a photo or experience, if you have a question, an answer or a suggestion, please send it to: Editor, RILF NEWS, P.O. Box 1419, Newport, RI 02840.

Gail Furr and Mary Phlicoxt (above), along with Will Reynolds, Everett Stuart, Tim Pindell and Eric Offenberg, came to Rose Island from the Eastern R.I. Conservation District, Soil Conservation Service to "talk dirt" and to make recommendations for plantings. The results? On Earth Day, April 25 our volunteers will be planting Rosa Rugosa, raspberries, blueberries and beach plums, thanks to Mary Philcox and ERICD's seedling program.

Additional contributions of plants and money for this work are welcome. We had a great time raising $145 by selling "bird poop" gardens at the Winterfest Flower Show in February. Thanks to Ann Reynolds, Nancy Espersen, Leppy and Jason McCarthy!

Protected from the birds by helmets and an umbrella, Bill Nichols and Gilbert George of the R.I. Wild Plant Society conducted a plant survey on Rose Island last June.

Because of the nesting birds on Rose Island, access is limited from April 1 to July 15 each year. That means groups shouldn't be larger than 10 people and dinghies can't be brought up on the beaches. Call Charlotte at 847-4242 for information on scheduled tours during this period when you can come up to the lighthouse and borrow a hard hat if you want to do some bird watching.

WHAT AN EDUCATION !

WE'LL COOPERATE, TONY!
Here is Tony Mach, Manager of NOAA-National Weather Service's co-operative weather program. Every morning since June (when our station was installed) our keepers have recorded precipitation and high/low temperatures for the previous 24 hours. The data is sent to NWS to generate climatological reports of long term trends.

Cormier Movers deserves our thanks and a prize for moving a piano the most times. When we were looking for a player piano for the lighthouse, two were donated. The first one, donated by Walter & Elaine Steere of Greenville, will be moved to the lighthouse this spring (if we can get six strong volunteers). The second one was won last year at our April Fool's Day raffle by Sandy Coelho of Middletown.

She writes, "I could not have received anything which would have pleased me more. Ever since I've been a child, I have had a deep love for the piano...You may be rest assured that I will take good, loving care of it. It has truly been and will continue to be a major highlight of my life. Thank You!"

Then there was the office move...Volunteer Lee Eschenheimer helped paint the new office at the Newport Harbor Center (ex-Armory), 365 Thames Street, Newport.

Below, Joe Davis jiggled his brains out for three days while jackhammering the 2-foot thick slab of concrete that supported the Coast Guard's huge metal water tank. With that removed, the landscaping could be completed. The next task was to build the public toilet building.

Ready to flush? Ed Zybura (a California visitor who knew about the importance of conserving water) tests Brysson Curtis' custom toilet tank. A student at St. George's, Brysson designed and constructed clear plastic one-gallon flushers for the lighthouse and public toilets as his summer project. Thanks Brysson!

SONNY DAYS
ROSE ISLAND

Thanks to Richard and Michael Breen of Middletown, we are able to take materials and volunteers to the lighthouse aboard the 30-foot classic Downeast lobster boat they gave us. We'll forever be grateful to the Breeches for their generous donation of this work horse of a boat, called "Sonny Days" after our first keeper.

Above, the strongest and most persistent volunteers alive are rounded up by their Master Chief Jim Boone of the U.S.S. Capodanno. Over three weeks, 25 crew and family members pitched in to do landscaping, to clear paths, scrape and paint just about everything, dig foundation holes and move the materials so the public toilets could be built before July 17--Tall Ships and the lighthouse's opening.

Beating our swords into plowshares...

This cement structure housed a generator that ran a WWII anti-aircraft gun. We considered demolishing it, but gave up when we realized it went six feet underground and was bombproof!

Sonny Guyette cleaned it out last summer--retribution, he said, for his having thrown so much stuff into it while he was stationed at the lighthouse under the Coast Guard!

We've made it into a cistern to hold water for the new public toilets--work which was funded by the Rhode Island Foundation in the amount of $14,000.

The Newport Daily News donated enough aluminum printing sheets to cover the roof which Joe Davis and Mike Lipka teamed up to caulk and nail down. A painful job.

We'll continue experimenting with metal and plastic roofing materials to see how they affect water quality in the cisterns.

Putting a BANG! into the Tall Ships visit, Skip Davis explains the loading of the cannon which we fired for our friends aboard the USS Capodanno and for Esmeralda which is barely visible through the haze that soon turned into the thickest fog ever seen on the Bay. With Tall Ships, the New Bedford rules of the road would seem to apply: The bigger the boat, the righter the way!

After the Guyettes left, volunteers kept the lighthouse until Eric Picard and Melissa Joly signed on. They are pictured to the right of Robert Chase and his father Wanton, whose grandfather was Charles Curtis (keeper from 1887-1918).

Then Charlotte Johnson became the keeper for the month of December, until Vermonter Christopher Owens signed on in January. Chris, a writer whose companion is a 3-legged dog named Morgan, appreciates the solitude but also loves company.

And he is a remarkably talented carpenter, mechanic, electrician...proof of which is Morgan's model lighthouse that's complete with a solar light and a gutter system that fills the dog's dish with rainwater!

The Last Word - submitted by Anne Quigley

One night at sea, the ship's captain saw what looked like lights of another ship heading towards his ship. The signaller was instructed to blink to the other ship: "Change your course 10 degrees south." The reply came back: "Change YOUR course 10 degrees north." The ship's captain answered: "I am a captain. Change your course 10 degrees south." To which the reply was: "Well, I am a seaman first class. Change YOUR course north."

This infuriated the captain, who signalled back: "Dammit, I say change your course south, I am on a battleship!" To which the reply came back: "And I say change your course north. I am in a lighthouse!"

BASIC MEMBERSHIP RATES INCREASE FOR FIRST TIME IN 10 YEARS.

Thanks to your volunteer efforts and contributions, we can still keep our basic rates quite affordable. As you would expect, the rate hike keeps up with the increased costs of postage and printing.

The old membership rates apply only until April 30, 1993. After May 1 please use the new schedule. No matter which rates you use, we do hope to hear from you as soon as possible so we can launch our spring and summer projects.

One of the ways we gauge the success of our organization is by the increasing numbers of people whom we thank each year. In 1992, for instance, we thanked over 1300 people for their support as members, volunteers, donors and suppliers. From the $5.00 senior or student member to the $25,000 grant giver, we appreciate each and every one's contribution of time, advice and money. With your continued help we will be able to LIGHT THE LIGHT!

"The Light House"
by Jesse Orton, Keeper (1921-1936)

I stand upon a rocky shore,
And watch the ships go by,
I see them come, and see them go,
And watch them cross the bar.

I sometimes wonder from whence they come,
And whither they are bound,
I only see them as I stand
Upon a rocky shore.

I have a duty to perform
As they go sailing by,
To keep the light burning bright
To guide the ships who pass a night.

Oh! that I had my Grandson Paul
to help me in the storms,
To guide these ships that pass the light,
To safety and from harm.

And may that light be a guide to us,
When we put out to sea,
And guide us safely o'er the bar,
My Grandson Paul and me.
